GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN

I. In the beginning was being the word, and the word was being with God, and [a] God was the word. [2] This in the beginning was being with (ϩⲁⲧⲛ̄) God. [3] All things became through him, and without him did not anything become: that which became [4] in him is the life, and the life is the light of the men. [5] And the light is enlightening in the darkness, and the darkness apprehended it not. I. [6] There was a man having been sent from God, his name being Iōhannēs. [7] This (one) came for a witness, that he should bear witness it is not granted to thee to take up thy bed. [11] He answered to them, He who cured me, that (one) is he who said to me, Take up thy bed, and walk. [12] They asked him, Who is the man who said to thee, Take it up, and walk? [13] But he who ceased (from pain) was not knowing who it was; for Jesus had withdrawn himself, a multitude being in that place. [14] After these (things) Jesus found him in the temple, said he to him, Behold, thou wast made whole; return not to commit sin, that the worse (lit. evil) than this should not happen to thee. [15] Went the man, he showed to the Jews, that Jesus (is) he who cured me. [16] Because of this the Jews were persecuting

VII. After these (things) was walking Jesus in [the] Galilaia; for he was not wishing to walk in [the] Iudaia, because were seeking for him the Jews to put him to death. [4] For no one is wont to work in secret, and seeketh indeed to be openly: if thou doest these (things) manifest thyself to the world. [5] For even his brothers were not believing him. (any) one is a man of God, and doing his wish, he is wont to hear him. [32] Since (the) age (began) it was not heard that some one opened the eyes of one who was born (ⲁⲡ.) being blind. [33] If this (one) had not been out of God, he would not have been able to do any work. [34] They answered, saying to him, Thou wast altogether begotten in the sin, and thou (art he) who will teach us. And they cast him out. [35] Jesus heard that they cast him out; and when he had found him, said he to him, Thou, thou believest the Son of the man. [36] Said he, Lord, who is he that I, I should believe him? [37] Said Jesus to him, Thou sawest him, and he who speaketh therefore again to them Jesus, Verily, verily, I say to you, I am the shepherd of the sheep. [8] All who came are thieves and are robbers; but (ⲁ) the sheep heard them not. [9] I am the door: if (any) one should go in through me he will be saved, and he will go in and come out, and find a place of feeding. [10] The thief is not wont to come because of any (thing), except that he should steal and slaughter and destroy; I, I came that they should take a life, and take an abundance. [11] I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd is wont to lay down his life for his sheep. [12] But the hireling, who is not a shepherd, this (one) whose own the sheep are not, is wont to see the wolf coming, and leave the sheep and flee; and the wolf is wont to carry them off and scatter them,

17 These are the (things) which I order you, that ye should love one another. 18 If the world hateth you, know that it hated me before you. 19 If ye were out of the world, the world would love that which is its own; but because ye are not out of the world, but (ⲁ) I, I chose you out of the world, because of this the world (is) hating you. 20 Remember the word which I said to you, There is not servant greater than his lord: if they persecuted me, they will persecute you; if they kept my word, they will keep also yours. 21 But (ⲁ) all these (things) they will be doing to you because of my name, because they know not him who sent me. 22 If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have not pretext concerning their sin. 23 He who hateth me

Petros also was standing, warming himself. [19] But the chief-priest asked Jesus concerning his disciples and concerning his doctrine. [20] Answered to him Jesus, I, I spake to the world openly; I always indeed taught in the synagogues and in the temple, the place in which all the Jews are wont to gather; and I said not any word in [the] secret. [21] Why askest thou me? Ask those who heard, what were the (things) which I said to them; these are they who know the (things) which I indeed said. [22] But these (things) when he had said, one of the officers standing (by) smote Jesus with a blow, saying, This is the manner of answering to the chiefpriest. [23] Said he to him

The text is printed continuously from the fragments, with breaks only at the chapters, except in the first chapter, where two breaks occur. Section marks and numbers are indicated in the Apparatus by § for small and ⁋ for large divisions of the text. In Matthew, Mark, and Luke the Greek numeration of the large divisions is given in Greek uncials to show that in these books the numeration of the divisions agrees with the Greek, whereas in John the numeration is given in Coptic uncials because a numeration differing from the Greek and agreeing with the Bohairic appears. In the short account of the fragments the occurrence of sectional marks will be noted. Marks occur in the earlier fragments, but numbers are not seen until a later time, and the Ammonian sections are written in only three MSS., one of which is not earlier than the ninth century; and the others, of much later date, are paper lectionaries, in the latest of which the numbers are written in a kind of cursive hand with the Arabic word for 'small' over them, and without any indication of the Eusebian canons. Square brackets in the text signify the loss of letters or words in the fragment. In constructing the text the chief guide was agreement with the so-called Neutral Text with which the earlier fragments were usually in accord. After this some importance in deciding the text was given to Western influence, which was found to be not so powerful as supposed. Frequently in the case of omission of conjunctions it was presumed that the version in its earliest form shows a survival of the old Egyptian asyndeton, and that the Greek δε was originally the connecting word before the Sahidic equivalent for και became used. Thus only can the practice of the MSS. be explained. Greek words were always preferred to Coptic in the text as probably belonging to the earliest version, and Bohairic agreement was avoided.

THE APPARATUS

Gothic letters represent the few papyrus fragments, and Gothic cit a citation written on papyrus. Greek cursive letters are used for the bilingual fragments written in Greek and Sahidic. Ordinary small letters mark the paper fragments. Ordinary numbers stand for the parchment fragments. Lectionaries are indicated by a small l placed above the letter or number. Curved brackets mean that the fragment is imperfect in the verse, and cannot be relied upon for that verse except when specially cited among the authorities for or against a given reading. If a note of interrogation be placed within the bracket, it means that there is some imperfection of the writing, but that the reading may be regarded as certain. Elsewhere a note of interrogation implies uncertainty. Occasionally 'fr' will appear, and means a later inserted unidentified fragment probably belonging to some of those in the Register.

In the upper part of the Apparatus verse numbers are printed, and following them come the letters and numbers giving the authorities for every single verse. These authorities are arranged as far as possible according to their supposed date. The signs § and ⲣ for small and large divisions are placed after the letter or number to which they belong, and if a Coptic letter, with line over it be seen, it shows the number of the large Greek or Coptic sections, and in Matthew, Mark, and Luke it will be found to correspond with the Greek uncial in the text: after this Coptic letter are placed the authorities which give it. This part of the Apparatus is devoted chiefly to orthographic phenomena and practically all the small variants of this kind are given of all the fragments, from which fact may be obtained some idea of the care and scholarship of the scribes. It may be noted here that only one MS. (73) appears to have suffered any systematic correction. When citing the authorities for a given reading the first authority in the verse list is always cited; if there are more than one other authority without brackets, the sign &c is employed to denote them, followed by the numbers within brackets, or without brackets if their text happens to be perfect in that given reading.

In the lower part of the Apparatus will be found the important variants. The reading of the text, always translated unless it be a Greek word, is followed by a square bracket, then come the Sahidic authorities, after them are the Greek MSS. taken from the editions of Tregelles and Tischendorf and indicated by the usual large capitals and numerals with the latest changes of the numerals made in the Prolegomena to Tischendorf's eighth edition of the New Testament. In ordinary cases when there are only two Greek readings, and the authorities are unequally divided, the fewer MSS. are written out and the large majority represented by &c following one MS. letter. Next come the versions: OL Old Latin with the usual letters for the MSS. within brackets, ff is for ff^2 and g for g^1, Vg Vulgate, Bo Bohairic followed by small capitals within brackets indicating the MSS. mentioned in the latest Oxford edition of this version, Syr Syriac followed by letters, g indicating Gwilliam's edition of the Peshitto, cs Burkitt's edition of the Curetonian and Sinaitic, j the Jerusalem lectionary and h the Harkleian form of the Syriac, Arm Armenian, Eth Ethiopic. Of these versions the Bohairic, the Peshitto, Curetonian, Sinaitic, and for John the Harkleian Syriac, the Armenian and Ethiopic have been collated by the editor for this edition: in the Armenian Zohrab's edition was used, and the latest edition of the Bible Society for the Ethiopic. Last come the patristic authorities taken from Tischendorf's apparatus. Each division of authorities is separated by a comma, the Sahidic from the Greek, the Greek from the Versions, and the Versions from the Fathers: when a semicolon occurs it is meant to combine the foregoing in relation to the following authorities.

Words in italics in the Apparatus translate the reading of the Versions. The numerals after the g of the Peshitto indicate the MSS. cited by Gwilliam: when the numeral is within brackets it means the number of MSS. which support the reading. Cit signifies a citation: when followed by a number it was given to the editor by Dr. Leipoldt and if preceded by L it was taken from the Leyden collection of fragments.

When curved brackets are used in the middle of a word the enclosed letters or words or numbers refer only to the letter immediately preceding, e.g. ⲉϥ(ϧ 111)ⲓ means that 111 writes ⲉϧⲓ. Sometimes for clearness a whole syllable may have to be written, e.g. ⲧⲉϥ(ⲧϥ̄ 70 134)ⲥⲓⲍ.

TRANSLATION

The order of the words has been kept more strictly than in the translation of the Bohairic version, and ⲁⲉ has always been translated 'but', and this word when followed by (ⲁ) renders ⲁⲗⲗⲁ. In other respects the rules of that translation have been observed with slight modification, e.g. 'when he had' for 'having'. The periphrasis for the passive has been translated as the passive whenever the Greek uses the passive; and when the frequentative form of the Coptic is used the phrase 'wont to be' represents that form where the Greek has the ordinary passive. Greek proper names if possible are preserved exactly in their own letters, e.g. Nazōraios, vol. i, p. 321, which by error is in italics, but if this is not possible, e.g. 'a Kyrenæan man', p. 333, italics are used, and all other translated Greek words borrowed by the Coptic are printed in italics.

Square brackets imply words used by the Coptic and not required by the English, while curved brackets supply words which are necessary to the English idiom.

NOTES ON THE FRAGMENTS OF MSS.

In the following remarks upon the materials of this edition the word fragment will be used and not the word manuscript, because only one complete volume is found among them; and, although no pains have been spared in identifying widely scattered leaves and pieces of leaves, some of them which are separated in the Register may belong to the same volume, while others united under a single number really form part of different volumes. Photography and careful description of fragments can do much for the work of identification, but certainty is only secured by the immediate continuation of the text upon two detached leaves.

Except when alluded to as copied by another person, all the authorities cited in this edition, including the publications of Dr. von Lemm, have been collated by the editor.

Of Papyrus four large practically continuous amounts of text have recently come to light, though one of them had been preserved with sufficient accuracy by the copy of Des Rivières, accessible in the Library of Munich. These papyri were not rolls but books, and are written in a bold upright regular hand not resembling the Greek writing of the fourth century to which some of the Sahidic parchment approximates: g has earlier forms and apparently two different hands. The fragment published by Pistelli and ascribed by him to the fifth or sixth century leans forward and joins some of the letters, being evidently less formal in appearance. Brit. Mus. 955 (e), which ought to have been classed with lectionaries, is like nearly the latest form of the writing on parchment of the eleventh century.

By far the largest amount of text is written on Parchment dating perhaps from the fifth to the fourteenth century. Only one date occurs in the whole body of the fragments and this is A.D. 985 (A. MART. 701), in the homiletic work lately acquired by the British Museum containing the Praise of S John the Baptist.

In dealing with this formidable collection of fragmentary documents a rough threefold classification may be employed depending upon some very obvious features of writing and form of page. Class i contains chiefly the smaller pages of text and usually smaller regular writing with the earlier form of the M and Y, and may be dated from the earliest time to the eighth century. Class ii embraces the fragments of the largest size and large regular writing with the forms ⲙ and ⲩ of the ninth and tenth century, while Class iii, with large pages except where a single column is used, shows a later development into a tall compressed and less regular writing. This rough threefold division is marked in the Register by space left between fragments 21 and a, 69 and 70.

The Century Number follows each Fragment, and B means a Photograph in Balestri's Edition.

Class i: 1, initials small and clear of the text, V. 2, initials small and half in the text, a red section mark is seen and there are red citation marks, V. 3, page numbers ⲛⲏ ⲛⲑ, punctuating point placed high or even above the letters, V. 6, initials scarcely larger than text and just projecting from it, section mark slightly ornamented, VI. 7, writing rather irregular and leaning forward, point placed high, VI. 8, B page numbers, ruling punctures between the columns, four forms of section mark varying from a simple horizontal line to elaborate colourless ornament, the horizontal lines of letters project into the margin, initials not larger than text are half marginal, VII. 9, page numbers, initial, small and clear of text, ornament of two kinds well and also roughly drawn and both coloured pink and green, VII. 10, horizontals of letters projecting into margin, initials same size as text and clear of it, colourless rough ornament, probably a later but not much later addition, a few corrections occur, VII. 11, page numbers ornamented with many little lines, punctures between the columns, horizontals of letters project remarkably, initials scarcely larger and not clear of text, slight coloured ornament. The Louvre fragment recently found continues the text, VII. 13, B large page with numbers and intercolumnar punctures, initials rare but of two sizes, very elaborate colourless ornament, VIII. 14, large page stained bright yellow, initials small and not clear of text, delicate coloured ornament, liturgical notes ⲟⲩⲱϣ ⲉϧⲟⲗ ⲉⲡⲉⲓⲙⲁ ϭⲱⲡⲉ ⲟⲛ ⲉⲧⲉⲭⲛⲥⲟ 'stay here, take up again at the sixth', and ⲟⲩⲱϣ ⲙⲛⲓⲙⲁ ϭⲱⲡⲉ ⲟⲛ ⲙⲛⲓⲙⲁ, VIII. 15, large page, initials small and partly in text, brightly coloured ornament with peculiar forms, VIII. 16, large page, section mark with slight ornament, initials not clear of text, appears to be an imitation of the earlier writing and not earlier than XI. 17, section mark with slight ornament, initials small, IX. 18, large page, initials small and clear of text, delicate colourless ornament, IX.

20, B rough imitation of the earlier writing, with coarse colouring, initials of three kinds, elaborate quire headings, liturgical notes and remains of a prayer in Greek beginning [παντοκ]ρατωρ επο̄ῆιε οο̄ and referring to παιακηη αμαρτολοη, probably of the twelfth or thirteenth century. At John vi is the titulus ετβε πωεϊκ μπωπ̄ 'concerning the bread of the life', at xi ετβε λαζαρος. At the end of John are Greek lections which suggest an earlier date than XII. 21, small fragments contained in a cardboard box and copied by Winstedt, probably earlier than the eighth century. 22, two kinds of writing, one an imitation of the earlier forms and the other of Class ii, very slight ornament at the initials which are nearly clear of the text, X. 24, section marks but no initials nor any ornament, VIII. 25, 26, small page with large writing of early forms, VII. 28, small writing, very regular, VI. These fragments 25, 26, 28 should have received a higher place in Class i, but the earlier numbers were already occupied.

Class ii: a, this bilingual fragment has both earlier and later forms, small initials partly in text with section mark. β, B earlier and later forms, initials and section marks appear in the Greek only. 30, small page with small delicate writing. The text ends at the end of the 12th chapter of Mark, and after three dotted lines is written τηπε μπιχωωμε πε μααϩ ῆπσοτ ῆπση χωρις' ηcαρηπος, another dotted line and the cryptogram ⲟⲡⲗⲡⲕⲑⲭⲟⲗⲱⲍⲑⲍⲍⲑⲯⲗⲫ = ⲁⲡⲟⲕ ⲡⲁⲩⲗⲟⲥ ⲙⲁ ⲙⲙⲁⲧⲟⲓ 'I Paulos (at the) place of soldiers' (cf. 122 Rylands Catalogue). 31, small page with single column, initials clear of text with trace of colourless ornament. 32, small page, small initials clear of text, and section mark. 33, small page with single column, one small initial. 34, small page, initials not larger than the text. 36, small page, well drawn colourless ornament at initials. These eight fragments may be referred to VII or an earlier century on account of their small size and character of writing, though in form of letters belonging to Class ii. γ, bilingual, of which the Greek is sometimes accented, small page, small initials clear of text, but the writing larger and to be assigned to VIII. δ, bilingual, large page numbered as usual, and one quire number remains, section marks, VIII. ε, bilingual, quire number, slight uncoloured ornament, IX. 37, large page of large and beautiful writing, section numbers occur, and the Ammonian sections and Eusebian canons are written in black and red with small graceful ornament. The following tituli are written in red with green ornament in the upper margin: (Matt. ii) ϯ ετβε ῆϣηρε ϣηιι ετⲁⲩⲣⲟⲧϧⲟⲩ 'concerning the young children who were killed', (Matt. iv) ⲁ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲧⲉⲥⲃⲏⲧ ⲙ̅ⲡⲉⲙⲥⲱⲧⲏⲣ 'concerning the preparation of our Saviour', (Matt. v) ⲃ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲛ̅ⲙⲁⲕⲁⲣⲓⲥⲙⲟⲥ 'concerning the beatitudes', Luke ⲓⲍ, (Matt. ix) ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲛ ⲉⲧⲟ ⲛ̅ⲇⲁⲓⲙⲟⲛⲓⲟⲛ 'concerning the demoniac', (Matt. xxvi) ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲧⲥⲓⲡⲡⲁⲣⲁⲇⲟⲧ ⲛ̅ⲓ̅ⲥ̅ 'concerning the betrayal of Jesus', and the corresponding sections of Mark ⲙⲉ and Luke ⲟⲏ are given in red, (Luke iii) ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲛⲧⲁⲧⲁⲡⲉ ⲓⲱϩⲁⲛⲛⲏⲥ 'concerning those who asked Iohannes', ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲡⲉⲓⲣⲁⲥⲙⲟⲥ ⲙ̅ⲡⲥⲱⲧⲏⲣ 'concerning the temptation of the Saviour', (Luke iv) ⲏ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲧⲉⲣⲉ ⲡⲉⲛⲛ̅ⲁ ⲛ̅ⲇⲁⲓⲙⲟⲛⲓⲟⲛ ϩⲓⲱⲱϥ 'concerning him who had the demon spirit', with the corresponding section of Mark ⲁ, ⲑ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲧⲙⲱⲙⲉ ⲛ̅ⲡⲉⲧⲣⲟⲥ 'concerning the mother-in-law of Petros', Matt. ⲑ Mark ⲏ, ⲓ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲛⲧⲁⲧⲁⲗⲁⲟ ϩⲛ̅ ϩⲉⲛⲙⲱⲛⲉ ⲉⲧⲙⲟⲩⲉ 'concerning those who were cured of various sicknesses', Matt. ⲟ Mark ⲑ, ⲓ̅ⲏ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲧⲥⲟⲩϩ̅ⲥ̅ ⲉⲡⲧⲁϥⲗⲟ 'concerning the leper who was cured', Matt. ⲥ Mark ⲁ, (Luke v) ⲓ̅ⲧ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲧⲥⲛⲁ 'concerning him who is paralysed', Matt. ⲓⲧ Mark ⲉ, ⲓ̅ⲍ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲗⲉⲩⲉⲓ ⲡⲧⲉⲗⲱⲛⲏⲥ 'concerning Levei the publican', Matt. ⲓⲁ Mark ⲥ, (Luke vi) ⲓ̅ⲉ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲉⲧⲉⲣⲉ ⲧⲉϥⲥⲓⲁ ⲙⲟⲩⲱⲟⲩ 'concerning him whose hand is dried up', Matt. ⲕⲁ Mark ⲍ, ⲓ̅ⲧ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲥⲱⲧⲙ̅ ⲛ̅ⲛⲁⲡⲟⲥⲧⲟⲗⲟⲥ 'concerning the choosing of the apostles', Matt. ⲓⲑ Mark ⲏ, ⲓ̅ⲍ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲛ̅ⲙⲁⲕⲁⲣⲓⲥⲙⲟⲥ 'concerning the beatitudes', Matt. ⲉ, (John xii) ⲓ̅ⲍ̅ ⲉⲧⲃⲉ (ⲧ)ⲉⲱ ⲙ̅ⲡ ⲡⲥⲛⲥ 'concerning the ass and the foal', Matt. ⲙⲉ Mark ⲗⲏ Luke ⲍⲏ, ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲟⲩⲉⲓⲉⲛⲓⲙ [ⲉⲛⲧⲁⲩ]ⲉⲓ ⲉⲣⲟϥ 'concerning the Greeks who came to him'. The Greek section numbers occur in John, VIII. 38, thick, close and regular writing with small initials clear of text, section numbers, colourless ornament with curious combined forms, VIII. 41, ornament peculiar, coloured pink and green, page numbers with many small lines, elaborate coloured dotted lines at the end and beginning of the Gospels, but there seems no heading to John, VIII. 44, 50, B elaborate coloured ornament at the quires with vase and combined forms and interlacing work. 50, has the remains of the heading of Luke written in an unformal hand. Before this came the ordinary long ending of Mark which contributes two letters to the imperfect text of the sixteenth chapter and supplies negative evidence against the shorter ending as alternative. 51, B, X. 52, B section numbers were added by later hand, one may be original, IX. 53, a few corrections occur in Luke, X. 55, section numbers, X. 57, section numbers by a later hand, X. ζ, small fragment of early writing with later forms to be classed with α and β, VII. 64, one folio was published by von Lemm in Mélanges Asiatiques, t. x, 1889, p. 85, X. 66, liturgical indications by later hand, X. 67, altered from 68 in Additions and Corrections, X.

68, evangelist's name is written in upper margin in large unformal hand, and a peculiar vase form occurs between the columns; cf. 44, 50, X.

Class iii: 69, titulus at John xi ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲗⲁⲍⲁⲣⲟⲥ 'concerning Lasaros'. 70, B ⲙⲁⲑ, ⲗⲟⲩ, ⲓⲱⲁⲛ written in upper margin, section marks and numbers, slight ornament faintly coloured, X. 71, B coloured ornament roughly drawn, XIII. 72, section numbers, uncoloured ornament, both forms of ⲉ compressed and broad, X. 73, B ⲡⲕⲁⲧⲁ on one page, ⲙⲁⲑⲑⲁⲓⲟⲛ ⲙⲁⲣⲕⲟⲥ ⲗⲟⲩⲕⲁⲥ ⲓⲱⲁⲛⲛⲟⲩ on the other respectively, systematically corrected throughout, titulus Matt. xxvi ⲉⲧⲃⲉ ⲡⲙⲩⲥⲧⲏⲣⲓⲟⲛ 'concerning the mystery', small writing on large page, ruling for every two lines. Bodleian Hunt. 3 is a paper lectionary of the months Athor, Mshir, and of Paskha, i. e. Lent. It contains rough Arabic beginnings of lections, and is probably of XIII. Hunt. 4, XIV, is a paper fragment of John, numbered for the leaves like Bohairic MSS., giving occasionally the Ammonian sections and canons. Hunt. 5, Paraskeve lections, rubrics in Coptic and Arabic, foliated, section numbers, e.g. Mark xiv 66 ⲙ̄ⲍ̄ which is rightly repeated at xv 1 and 6, ⲟⲏ again is right for lections beginning Luke xxii 47, 56, 66, then ⲟⲑ follows correctly for xxiii 11, and ⲗⲑ is the right Sahidic number for John xix 1, XIII.

Vatican 90 has a lection from Luke which is found copied exactly among the Munich fragments of Des Rivières (Munich 8). 99 is a complete volume with lectionary for Holy Week in Sahidic and Arabic and worthy of publication, though not earlier than XIII.

Of the other lectionary fragments 1^1 and 2^1 are probably IX, a^1–9^1 X, 10^1–27^1 XI, 30^1–36^1 XII, 40^1–h^1 XIII, 46^1–o XIV.

Amongst the individuals of Class iii little attention has been called to phenomena of initial letters and ornament or the numbering of pages. Probably all the MSS. of this and Class ii had numbers on every page and quire numbers in regular course. Comparatively very few fragments have preserved a quire number and still fewer any ornamental treatment of last and first page of the quire. In these later fragments at least two kinds of initials appear and the Apparatus records the two kinds with sufficient accuracy by means of the signs § and ℙ. Ornament is often attached to the initials and a characteristic sameness in colour and form prevails. Compared with the Bohairic it is smaller in design, and interlacing work is less common, but in a very few instances far greater spirit and invention is shown, though hardly any attempt at representing the scenes described occurs as in the great parchment MS. of the National Library and the smaller paper volume in the Institut Catholique of Paris, nor any imitation of the Byzantine pictures of the Evangelists which are found in the MSS. of Paris and Cairo.

In reference to papyrus 𝔤 the following particulars may be of some interest. The editor was told at Munich that the originals of Des Rivières' copy preserved in the Library had been destroyed in the bombardment of Alexandria. On returning to England, by the kind suggestion of Mr. Leatham, of Miserden Park, Gloucestershire, he found them in the possession of Henry Martyn Kennard, Esq., well known as a collector of Egyptian antiquities. The papyrus had been obtained from a foreman of the Engineering Company which undertook the recent improvement of the harbour of Alexandria. It is very gratifying to be able to add that, since the printing of these Notes, the public-spirited owner has presented the fragments, together with a much larger number of non-Biblical pieces, to the British Museum.

The number of fragments may be reckoned as follows: for Matthew 187, Lectionaries 35; Mark 76, Lectionaries 17; Luke 152, Lectionaries 42; John 210, Lectionaries 32, giving a total of 751. The papyrus passages are included in these figures, but are not reckoned according to each fragment: the passages in each gospel are reckoned as one for each indicating Gothic letter.

Of the whole body of fragments, Nos. 8, 13, 14, 21, 37, 73, 108, 110, 114, a^1, 61^1, 26^1, b^1, f^1, g^1, m^1 give text from all the four gospels; while Nos. 𝔤, 9, 18, 20, 50, 64, 70, 86, 91, 109, 4^1, 13^1, 19^1, 33^1, 48^1, l^1 give text from three.

As regards the amount of consecutive text in each supposed MS., No. 111 has the whole of Matthew xi–xxvi, Luke v (vi); No. 91 Luke ix–xvi, xviii–xxii (xxiv), John ii–vii; No. 114 Mark iii–viii, Luke vi, vii, xiii (xvii), (xviii), xix–xxiii; No. 8 Matthew i–iii, xvii–xix, xxv, Mark vii, Luke vii, viii; No. 86 Matthew xi, xii, Luke v, vi, John viii, ix; No. 9 Matthew xi, xxv, Luke iv, xx (xxi); No. 20 John x, xi, xv, xix (xx); No. 37 Matthew iii, iv, Luke iv, v; No. 64 Matthew ii (iii), Mark vii, viii; No. 71 Matthew viii, ix, xii, xiii; No. 73 Mark ii, xii–xiv; No. 85 Luke vii, viii, John xv, xvi; No. 95 John (xiii), xiv, xvii, xviii; No. 120 Mark x–xiii; No. 43 John iii, viii, ix; No. 70 Matthew xix, xx, xxiv; No. 110 John x–xii. N.B. Brackets imply the loss of one verse. Nos. 13, 50, 55, 57, 74, 89, 90 have two chapters; and Nos. 11, 14, 15, δ, 40, 108, 119, 129, 130, 132, 133, m^1 have one chapter.

Fragments which reached the editor after the Apparatus was printed have been duly recorded among the Additions, where will be found an indication of the verses which they contain.

ESTIMATE OF THE VERSION

Two general observations may be made in regard to the whole body of fragments. The first is the freedom from corrections and the consistency of the orthography of individual MSS. As noticed above, only one MS. appears to have been extensively corrected. The second observation is the unanimity of the readings. Variants appear, as is only natural in so large a number of MSS. of different dates, but these variants are few, and their scarcity may be connected with the fact that so many of the fragments have come from the same place, the White Monastery.

To give an illustration of this unanimity of readings, if we take the Delectus drawn up in the Appendices ad Novum Testamentum Stephanicum under the supervision of Dr. Sanday, only three fluctuations will be noticed among fifty-four readings in Matthew; three also among the twenty-two in Mark; none at all among thirty readings in Luke; and only one among thirty-five in John. This singular unanimity must be qualified by the comparative paucity of fragments for each passage, twelve being the highest number, and this number occurs only twice among these selected readings: but one of the appearances of twelve MSS. happens in John vii. 53, where all the fragments omit that verse and the following eleven verses of chapter viii. Strangely enough some words of this passage have been found written in Sahidic upon a stone 'ostrakon' in the British Museum and published in the catalogue by Mr. Hall, who made this interesting discovery.

In estimating the character of the Version the following figures will give some idea of the position which it holds. They have been compiled by the editor during correction of proofs, and do not refer to variation of particles. Beside them, under the head of 'miscellaneous', were collected the readings of other early uncials and cursives when varying alone or in company with few MSS.; and also the readings of the other versions, when variant, amounting to 1,478; and finally under 'S' were numbered 1,262 readings of Sahidic alone. This should be noticed, because otherwise the figures below will seem too few.

In Matthew, agreeing with the Sahidic, 1,206 readings are classed as those of the great majority of later Greek MSS., 211 are of the earliest mixture ℵB alone or small groups containing ℵB, 73 belong to D alone or with a few other authorities, and 20 to the Old Latin, ℵ practically alone has 51, B 46, C 21, L 23.

In Mark 1,467 for later as against 236 of earliest groups, 130 for D, 31 for Old Latin, 47 for ℵ and B each, 11 for C, and 5 for L.

In Luke 2,524 for later as against 296 of earliest groups, D 215, 54 Old Latin, 63 ℵ, 70 B, 15 C, and 14 L.

In John 1,644 of later, 141 of earliest groups, 87 D, 42 Old Latin, 85 ℵ, 61 B, 7 C, and 16 for L.

These figures confirm the latest estimate of the Version, as agreeing with the Bohairic in its Neutral tendency. They also reduce the evidence for Western influence, though the marked preponderance of D readings in all the Gospels maintains that influence, of which the most prominent instance in the Sahidic is the description of the stone, rolled to the door of the sepulchre in the narrative of Luke, where however four variations of the words are seen, none of them agreeing exactly with the reading of the only other authorities D and Old Latin c. No other peculiar addition of D or other Western document is found, and D readings which are not Sahidic occur in great abundance. The advantage of readings of ℵ over B points in the same Western direction, while the absence of peculiar L readings removes any idea of late Alexandrian tendency, although the probable Sahidic ending of Mark given by 108 makes a conspicuous exception in favour of L.

From the same arrangement of the various authorities a further set of figures has been drawn up. In this set the number of times in which ℵB and ℵB groups agree with both Sahidic and Bohairic is 786; and the number in which they disagree 374. ℵB agree with Bohairic alone 191 times and ℵB with Sahidic alone 171. For each Gospel the figures are: Matthew 165, Mark 201, Luke 220, John 100 when ℵB agree with SahBo; Matthew 93, Mark 57, Luke 141, John 83 when they disagree. Then when ℵB agree with Bohairic alone: Matthew 26, Mark 66, Luke 74, John 25; and when ℵB agree with Sahidic alone: Matthew 40, Mark 29, Luke 59, John 43. Here the gross figure of Bohairic agreement with the Neutral readings is larger than that of the Sahidic, but in the separate figures the superiority is not so decisively maintained, Matthew and John giving a large superiority for agreement of Sahidic with ℵB. The figures for agreement of ℵB with SahBo in each Gospel mark again the early Alexandrian character of both versions, the ratio appearing highest in Mark, 201 against 57 for absence of SahBo from ℵB, John showing only a small difference. In Luke the difference between Sahidic and Bohairic is the least, in Mark the greatest; in Matthew and John the proportion is nearly the same, Sahidic being nearer ℵB by two to one. The Gospel of John was the more popular in Egypt and might therefore become assimilated to the later Greek MSS., perhaps also to earlier assimilation is due the comparatively small difference between the figures (100 and 83) which denote agreement and disagreement of ℵB with SahBo.

Taking another means of testing the Version, among the selected readings discussed by Westcott and Hort in their Introduction, and of which the greater number represent a division between Western and Neutral readings, 48 are taken from Matthew. Of these only one in the Sahidic is simply Western, viz. the name Gerasenes, which is the reading of both the fragments containing the verse, against Gadarenes or the Bohairic Gergesenes. The other 13 are chiefly Western and Syrian, 3 Syrian and 2 pre-Syrian. In 4 only do the fragments vary: the late lectionary f^1 omits behind me in iv. 10, 111 has works instead of children in xi. 19, 111 and 119 read Jesus the Christ in xvi. 21, and the earlier fragments, 50, 52, and 80, put the recusant son last, and give the answer the last instead of the first, which is the reading of 18, 111, and 112, fragments of probably later MSS., which put the recusant son first. The large majority of the Sahidic agree with the Bohairic in their support of the Neutral readings.

Mark supplies 47 readings, in which the Sahidic varies from the Neutral in eight cases, and twice only shows division of testimony. In xiv. 68 the interesting 73 and 108 with 127 give the Neutral reading; and in vii. 4 there are three Sahidic variations of the reading καὶ κλινῶν. In no case does a purely Western form occur in the Version among these readings of the second Gospel.

Of the 65 readings selected from Luke, in ix. 37, one of the three MSS., 129, omits on the same day, which is the peculiar reading of the other two; and all the six MSS. have covered for burning in xxiv. 32, supporting the Western reading; 91 has the addition and thus it must be in xxiv. 46 against the two other MSS. which confirm the Neutral omission; but with these three exceptions in all the other selected places the Sahidic agrees continually with the Neutral reading.

In 40 readings taken from John, 11 of the Sahidic vary from the Neutral, and 6 have the Western form, though one of these, given, in vii. 39, is paraphrased on account of the difficulty of expressing the passive. Two combinations of readings occur at i. 18 and i. 34: God the only Son and the Son the chosen, but in no case is there any fluctuation of the Sahidic MSS., which are sufficiently numerous in most of the chapters of John.

From this investigation of these selected readings the same result as before is obtained. The Western readings have a decided but slight superiority of number over other variants, while the main stream is Neutral, and this, now regarded as the early Alexandrian form, exhibited by the Bohairic, maintains itself even more firmly in the Sahidic. Further, the large numbers of Western readings given in those selected by Westcott and Hort make the case more significant even though those authors have omitted the description of the stone of the sepulchre, sufficiently remarkable among the twelve greater Western interpolations.

Publication of the whole of the Gospels and the ascertainment of the readings of MSS., often amounting to a respectable number, will not materially alter the opinion about the Version and the relation of the Sahidic to the Bohairic which the writer in the Encyclopedia Biblica iv. 5008–10 has expressed.

As for the Sahidic MSS. themselves, the fragments are seldom long enough to determine satisfactorily the real character of the entire documents, and the longest are naturally the more recent. If longer and earlier fragments are discovered greater diversity may appear, but at present there is not much sign of variation. Matthew 111 and the lectionary m^1 seem to have a slightly different vocabulary from the rest: thus 111 reads ⲉⲧϣⲟⲟⲡ ⲛⲁϥ for ⲉⲧⲛ̄ⲧⲁϥ, ⲁⲩⲉⲓⲥⲟⲩ for ⲁⲙⲓⲥⲟⲩ, ⲁⲩⲣ̄ for ⲁⲩⲉⲓ, ⲡⲉⲕⲣⲟ for ⲡⲕⲁϩ, ⲉⲩⲧⲁⲗⲥⲏⲩ for ⲉⲩⲟⲩⲟⲱ joined in this last case by 73, ⲧⲁⲙⲉ for ⲧⲟⲟⲥ; m^1 ϩⲓⲙⲁⲓ for ⲛ̄ⲧⲉⲓϩⲉ, ⲁⲡⲟⲩ for ⲧⲱ. 73, 111, 134 and m^1 show signs of conforming to the Bohairic, and 111 of conforming to the Greek as in Matthew xiii. 15, 17, 27 and xxi. 4. It has been observed that the Bohairic group DΔE &c. give special support to the Sahidic in Matthew, but this tendency is not maintained in Mark. The Bohairic MS. M, which is known to have been brought from the Monastery of St. Anthony in the Eastern Desert, bears trace of Sahidic influence, as also Γ now in the Library of the Patriarch at Cairo, but probably written by the same scribe as the MS. of the Epistles and Acts which still reposes on the shelf of a Sahidic Library in Dair al Muharraq. The peculiarities also of Bohairic F and K sometimes suggest Sahidic affinity.

THE DATE OF THE VERSION

According to the opinion of Harnack expressed in the second edition of his Expansion of Christianity no trustworthy information concerning the origin of the religion of Christ in Egypt exists; though he remarks that the traditional list of the Patriarchs of Alexandria ought not to be lightly disregarded.

With the accession of Demetrius in A.D. 188 the real history of the Egyptian Church may be said to begin. During his long patriarchate he appointed four bishops, and his successor Heraclas as many as twenty, which indicates a rapid progress of the Church. Clement of Alexandria, born about A.D. 150, speaks of the Christians spreading over all the land, and while Origen in his discussion with Celsus admits that the number of Christians was small in the early part of the third century, yet there were enough to persecute under the rule of Decius in A.D. 250.

Considering the ease with which some of the ancient Egyptian beliefs might be adapted to the creed and teaching of Christians, and that there was probably an heretical Gospel of the Egyptians in the second century, we can hardly deny the likelihood of an early propagation of the faith. If with Harnack, relying on Leipoldt, 'we may conjecture, though we cannot prove, that the Sahidic Version partly goes back to the third century', there seems some reason for supposing that need of a vernacular Version arose as early as the time of Demetrius.

Where history fails us, the internal character of the Sahidic supplies confirmation of a date earlier than the third century. Being fundamentally of the older Alexandrian type, yet bearing signs of mixture from one or more sources, we can imagine the Version as of a form of text which, diverging from the main stream, retained variations belonging to the earliest times, such as are known by the name of Western readings. These it preserved, and adopted afterwards some of the readings which are usually regarded as due to a later Syrian revision.

This theory does not preclude the translation of the Greek having taken place as late as the third century, but the traces of early mixture shown by the definite tinge of Western influence can hardly be explained except by reference to a date as early as possible. If Christianity did not exist at all in Upper Egypt before A.D. 150, then we must come down to the date of Demetrius as the earliest possible date of the Version; but if, as is more likely, the Christian religion had spread by means of the Nile immediately after it began to be preached in Alexandria, and had already become infected by heretical and semi-pagan superstitions in the second century, we may provisionally conclude from the character of the Sahidic Version that it was made at that time.
